

2010 FORECAST

*I am a master of inconsistency
I raise doubt for all to question
I am eager to take the stage
And play the devil's advocate
I back down from nothing
And scorn those who fear the unknown
I play to win and enjoy my victories openly
I revel in being supreme and untouchable
I invite all to join in my triumphs
But only to taste my victory, not devour it
I am powerful, unpredictable and protective.*

I AM THE TIGER

This is a year to protect the endangered and clean up the debris from the past. The Tiger always gives more than his share and expects the same from anyone who enters his sphere.

Things have been bleak for the United States and uncertainty remains. It will not be the year to rely on fickle allies but, instead to be concerned with matters closer to home.

Dealing with countries refusing to cooperate and astronomical amounts of money needed to protect the land of the free and home of the brave will continue. However, somewhere in the eye of the storm, peace and justice will be found.

Canada must show diplomacy to avoid conflicts. There will be demands and restrictions with the potential to lead to financial, political and environmental losses. The future depends on how legislative handles existing problems.

The United Kingdom will carry on a path that appears to be easygoing and without too many financial burdens. It will observe and learn from the test drive into the future that the U.S. is embarking on.

For all of us, expect a turbulent year on all fronts. All must strive for integrity and justice. It will take a collective offering by the people to overcome the horrific changes in climate and our environment and our apparent inability to get along.
